Notes

Alan Church was born in a poor merchant family. One day while still very young Alan demonstrated his mathematical talent when he corrected the taxes his mother was counting. Soon the boy was send to the Academia to study various subjects.

He quickly was at the top of his class, which granted him special privileges. Alan was aloud to experiment on his own. Little did he know that this would be his downfall.

One day Alan was to be saved from a burning laboratory that quickly spread around the quarters of the academia and would later be known as the great fire of the academia. Alan was soon held responsible, even though he has no recollection of the event.

Cast away by the rigid power structures of the academy and still eager for knowledge he drifted in the arms of a rogue wizard. Even though Alan had little magical aptitude his curiosity made up in his training. It even seemed as if his power grew with each spell that he learned.

Notes (continued)

Unfortunately Alan found himself out of luck once again. His new mentor found an untimely end. It seemed as though Alan would need to travel the road alone again.
